NO MONEY—JUST COMMITMENT

We all receive year-end requests for money from our favorite non-profits. They need your financial support to accomplish their good works. However, I come to you, not for financial support, but to ask for your commitment. I ask that you commit to being conscious of the sentient being at the end of your fork and to commit to thinking about the day (or days) you consciously do not eat meat.

Please start by looking at this picture and thinking about your answer.

Determine if you really love animals OR if you are okay with how they suffer to get to your plate.

If you do love animals, or if you are not okay with how they suffer, be honest about why you continue to eat them.

My new favorite quote by Mahatma Gandhi:

The most violent weapon on earth is the table fork.

As we approach the new year, please consider to renew your pledge and beyond:

Plan 1 – Give up meat on a certain day each week. This will bring a consciousness to planning your meals ... and buy only cage-free eggs.

Plan 2 – Step it up by giving up meat & dairy products on a second day each week.

Plan 3 – Get on the cruelty-free path by giving up one animal every three months. No pigs Jan-March, no cows April-June, etc.

If you combine plans one, two and three, the total will equate to a huge step forward toward doing your part to reduce animal cruelty.

It's as easy as 1, 2, 3...!

Please commit and pledge for a kinder 2020...!

Please remember to buy only cage free eggs and pass this email to your mailing list. Thank you! Lois
